AIMS AND CONTENT
20. What issues does the resource aim to address?	"The ICOM Red Lists of Cultural Objects at Risk are practical tools to curb the illegal traffic of cultural objects. Red Lists present the categories of cultural objects that can be subjected to theft and traffic. They help individuals, organisations and authorities, such as police or customs officials, identify objects at risk and prevent them from being illegally sold or exported."
21. Intended audience of resource	"The Red Lists are freely available in digital format, while booklets are distributed primarily to law enforcement agencies. Everyone involved in the trade or protection of cultural objects is invited to consult and disseminate the Lists in order to maximise the use and impact of this internationally recognised tool."
22. Process of development	"ICOM has been publishing Red Lists since the year 2000, with the scientific collaboration of national and international experts and the unwavering support of dedicated sponsors, to cover the most vulnerable areas of the world in terms of illicit trafficking of cultural objects."
