AIMS AND CONTENT
20. What issues does the resource aim to address?	“Deliberative public engagement is a distinctive approach to involving people in decision-making. It is different from other forms of engagement in that it is about giving participants time to consider and discuss an issue in depth before they come to a considered view. The aim of this document is to encourage and support deliberative public engagement in public policy.” (p.1)
21. Intended audience of resource	[those working to develop and deliver better public services, promote social cohesion and foster a thriving democracy]
22. Process of development	“The lead author of this publication was Diane Warburton at Shared Practice who was supported by Lindsey Colbourne at the Sustainable Development Commission, Karin Gavelin and Richard Wilson at Involve and Anthony Noun at the National Consumer Council. This document was informed and steered by discussions at two stakeholder workshops in November 2007 and April 2008. A draft of the principles was available for comments on the Involve wiki between 6 February and 7 April 2008.”
