24. Framework structure	"Pūtātara explores three concepts: tūrangawaewae (understanding where I stand), kaitiakitanga (caring for people and place), and whakapuāwai (flourishing ever forward) [that can be considered as a framework]. These concepts coalesce themes from global citizenship and sustainability while honouring Aotearoa New Zealand's unique heritage. They can be used exclusively or in concert with one another." [About this resource]
	Pūtātara helps teachers and students to explore these three fundamental concepts (tūrangawaewae, kaitiakitanga, and whakapuāwai) from te ao Māori. For each, it provides two pathways that support students' inquiry learning and active responses, and a smorgasbord of suggested activities. They require both cognitive and emotional responses, encouraging learners to wrestle with and resolve the layered issues of sustainability and global citizenship. Each pathway also provides a Kaleidoscope of stimulating resources for you and your learners to draw on for inspiration and information as you work through your inquiry. Kaleidoscopes offer links to support resources, and you can save these and activities to your own pātaka, or storehouse. There are also links to Expo 2020, where New Zealand is showcasing its approaches to sustainability and global citizenship.
